IDEAL CANDIDATES

This qualification is for those wanting to participate in projects of all sizes. You'll typically have some pre existing project management knowledge. It's the ideal next step for anyone holding the APM Project Fundamentals Qualification.

EXAMINATIONS

Apprentices are required to achieve a suitable level of knowledge as part of their development such that they achieve an IPMA Level D qualification or, in the case of Riverside Training, an APM Project Management Qualification, prior to their EPA.

This will be a 3 hour, 15 minute exam with candidates expected to answer 10 out of 16 questions and achieve a 55% marking to pass through to EPA.

END POINT ASSESSMENT

The End Point Assessment follows a 2 stage assessment process:

- 1 hour presentation supported by a portfolio of evidence with a weighting of 33.3%
- 1 hour professional discussion also supported by the portfolio with a weighting of 66.6%

Grading: Fail / Pass / Merit / Distinction

INNOVATIONS

Your learner platform.

Offering everything from learning material, qualification tracking, evidence submissions and review records.

Not all of us think in the same way.

Some of us are better at languages than others. One person's maths is another person's nightmare. How we think and our strengths are dictated by eight areas of brain activity.

CognAssist is an incredible system that maps your personal brain strengths through a quick, fun, online assessment. This will help you and your assessor identify your preferred learning style and plan for assessments that will work best for you.

Supporting our learners is our priority!

Whether it be anxiety right through to suicidal thoughts, we understand the challenges life presents.

We have partnered with Bee Inspired to deliver confidential support to any of our learners or indeed staff who may have issues, and need support.

Riverside Training offers a range of support resources and Bee Inspired are on hand to offer weekly support sessions throughout the duration of our learner's courses.

OFF THE JOB (OTJ) TRAINING

Off-the-job training is defined as learning which is undertaken outside of the normal day-to-day working environment and leads towards the achievement of a Qualification.

Off-the-job training is based on the learner's normal working hours. This is calculated at 20% of their working hours, capped at a minimum requirement of six hours per week.

This can be allocated across the course duration in any format.

The idea is that the candidate is using their knowledge, skills and behaviours and applying it during working hours.

Over the duration of the qualification 20% of their time should be allocated to the training (it does not mean they need to take 6 hours in a block per week).

OTJ EXAMPLES

Off-the-job training will depend on the focus of the Qualification. Training should develop the learner as an employee and must involve learning new skills.

Activities could include:

- Shadowing team members at work to learn new skills and behaviours
- Attendance at workshops, training days and webinars relevant to the apprenticeship
- Completion of online learning through Riverside Training's BUD system
- Industry visits, conferences and other external training (outside of the workplace) that develops the skills and professional ability of the learner
- Practical training to use programmes, technology or other relevant tools
- Learning support and time spent writing assignments

You will receive support from your Learning & Development Coach on how to log your off-the-job training.

This is just a summary but if you are keen to pursue a career in accounting or finance you will need to secure the necessary qualifications to progress.

Doing this whilst you are in employment makes great sense for you and your employer.

We at Riverside Training are one of the UK's most dynamic and respected training providers.
